

VOLUNTEER SHOWCASE

November 2012, Tennessee

Earth Team Volunteers Help “Celebrate the Earth”

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), in partnership with the Humphreys County Soil Conservation District in Tennessee hosted the 16th annual Environmental Field Day. “Celebrate the Earth” was the theme for 2012.

Attending the event were approximately 560 students and adults from the Humphreys and Houston County school systems in Tennessee. More than 100 individuals, including Earth Team volunteers, helped make this event a success.

A variety of state agencies, organizations and businesses sponsored the event and displayed “hands-on” exhibits, nature walks and presentations themed around “Celebrate the Earth.”

Students learn hands-on at a conservation station. More than 500 students and adults attended the 16th Annual Environmental Field Day in Tennessee.

The Earth Team is the volunteer component of the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), a USDA agency. For more about NRCS and the Earth Team, visit www.usda.nrcs.gov.
